Quickguides Angel Real Estate

How to get started in the commercial real estate area?

We have a great guest speaker with a lot of experience in the area, Joseph James, who is a commercial real estate agent and also an investor and educator in the commercial real estate space.

What should I do to become a commercial agent?

As a first tip, talk to other commercial real estate agents to get a better understanding of the field, including lifestyles, income, and career plans. Specialize in a specific area of the commercial real estate market and seek specific training before starting.

Tips for residential real estate agents interested in commercial real estate:

If you're a residential real estate agent interested in entering the world of commercial real estate, don't forget this:

Talk to other commercial real estate agents to get a better understanding of the field.

Find a specific area in the commercial real estate market to specialize in.

Seek specific training before starting.

The importance of education and training:

The importance of training and education in the success in the field of commercial real estate is fundamental when entering this field. Joseph suggests seeking specific training and education in the chosen area of specialization, whether it's investment, development, or leasing.

Starting in the world of commercial real estate may seem daunting, but with the right guidance and proper education, any real estate agent can enter the world of commercial real estate successfully.

Don't miss the opportunity to become a commercial agent with the help of the best experts.
